

Good morning everyone, Mr. Junik here with my Saturday morning update...

Happy Birthdays go out to Tyler Wass and Max Han enjoy a wonderful day fellas...

Let me start with... the entire transcript of this message can be found on our website... you can access it anytime to clarify or reread.

Well, Governor Cuomo made it official yesterday... No more school until September!

The faculty and I have just finished putting the final touches on how we will finish each class in order to meet State requirements. Instead of a final exam, each course will have a capstone project... an at-home final assessment based on each class's content. Here are some highlights.

1. All projects will be uploaded to Schoology on May 11th. All Projects must be submitted by Sunday, May 31st (3-weeks)

2. All projects will have 3 milestones so that we can keep all you procrastinators on track.

Milestone #1 will be due on May 17th

Milestone #2 will be due on May 24th

And Final Project will be due May 31st

- Milestones 1 & 2 will be graded and placed in iNow as 4th quarter grades.
- Your Capstone Project will be the final exam grade.

3. AP students, you are exempt from that course's Capstone. ex. AP Lang students do not need to complete the English 11 capstone project. You are working really hard on your upcoming exam so...

AP students, we will take an average of all 4 quarters and that will be your final exam score for that course.

5. Other than AP, there will be NO exemptions!

I am excited because I believe we have come up with an interesting and innovative way to close out a very strange year.

These projects will roll out on May 11th... for now, continue working on assignment #6 which is due tomorrow. And know this... I AM SO PROUD OF ALL OF YOU!

Enjoy the sunshine... see you soon!
