About Frank Rossi

Frank Rossi is a Buffalo native, graduated from Baker Victory High School and Colgate University, where played varsity football for 4 years. After a short period as a banker with Manufacturers Hanover in NYC, Frank caught the acting bug which has led to a nearly 40-year career in the Arts. Frank has been an actor (White Men Can't Jump, Miami Vice, General Hospital), along with numerous stage productions and over 40 national commercials), writer (Bull in the Ring, Victims of Circumstance, The Unwanted) casting director (Marshall, G.O.D., & Green Brook) acting coach (Jim Caviezel, The Passion of Christ, Person of Interest), and teacher. The Frank Rossi Studio has taught thousands of men, women and children the art of acting with an emphasis on the Meisner Method.

"Acting is more than just the act of portraying a character," stated Mr. Rossi. "It requires the participants to actively listen, think on their feet and respond appropriately. All of which, listen, think and respond are elements that are so important for our children to learn at any age."
